“ Ed was a hero of mine. I met him at work in 1981. He taught me many things and kept me encouraged when the job got too hectic. We worked together and were friends ever since then. He came to visit me in Texas several times and we would go camping and sightseeing. Over the decades we spent many an hour on the phone with each other.

It is rare to have a friend like Ed. He was kind, hard working, helpful, a bit of a comedian, but above all trustworthy. If he gave you his word it would be so. He cared about others and would give you the shirt off of his back. I am so grateful he was a part of my life and I will honor his memory. I know he is in heaven driving a chevy truck to go hunt elk. His pain is ended. A well deserved rest is his.
