“ My brother was always a free spirit, ...from our early days of living on Creek where he began his short journeys of exploring the neighborhood, and he continued his exploring when we moved to the east side on Macklyn Ct. He wasn't much into school sports of any kind while in school, but he loved to go fishing. My brother loved a lot of things in life, ... He was a Bass guitar player! He loved playing music,..He eventually discovered Golf, which I believe was his passion. ...Adams became his home away from home. ...But most of all, he loved his kids, and grand kids more than anything else... I know he's pain free now and in a better place,... I miss you... love you brother.

“ Greg was a fun member of our weekend golfing group--he had a sweet swing and could hit a driver off the deck with the best of us. We lovingly called him 'Guido' after the Saturday Night Live character, Father Guido Sarducci, whom Greg resembled. He often talked about getting well enough to get back to the golf course, but his time ran out. All his many friends at Adams will miss him, but we are comforted knowing he is pain free in a better place. Rest in peace, Guido; keep swinging!

“ We had the pleasure of Greg being part of ours and Helmco's family for 11 years. He was a good friend, easy going, always thinking of others and had a such a positive outlook. We appreciated his dependability, honesty, hard work ethics, a skilled CNC machinist, welder and more. A day at work with Greg was fun and enjoyable. He would talk about his children and it was obvious how much he loved them. Sometimes our discussions would lead to world affairs, politics, etc; Greg always had his input, always interesting making a lot of sense. We used to kid him about getting up on his " Soapbox" Greg leaves a lasting impression on many people, more than he realized. Greg will always remain in our hearts and minds. The memories are many and cherished. We are thankful for those years we shared with Greg. Knowing him was a blessing. You fought a good fight Greg, now go rest high on that Mountain in the presence of our Heavenly Father. Amen !
