“ I met Joan when her family moved to Sarah Street in Temperance. She quickly became a member of the "Sarah Street Gang." From day one, Joan was a warm, down to earth, loving person. Through the years Joan would return to this area and visit whomever she could find. Joan never forgot those years. When she joined Facebook, she accepted me to be a friend as I noticed she accepted other Sarah Street friends. I always enjoyed her posts. May Joan rest in peace and continue to care for her family from her special place in Heaven. There is no doubt that she will be greatly missed. Anne Guiberson

“ I've known Joanie since I was a child. She lived down the street where I grew up and was our babysitter. We were still friends 60 years later. Her smile was infectious and her sweetness and caring knew no limits. For such a tiny lady, she left some huge footsteps to follow. I will never forget her.

“Joan came into my life my freshman year of high school. We shared many long car rides and even more Friday nights under the lights.. watching the same Ironman #65 that we both thought highly of. Every week I could expect to see her and share her love for candy, strawberry and orange cream savers. We both ended up parting ways but came in contact in 2006, both working together at Kohls! I felt her love like I was her own. She came to me when I was in need, having Jack very early. She spends days with me in the NICU loving on me and my Jack. She told me many stories of Ralph's son, Alex, who was also premature. The love she had for him was very obvious! Shortly after Jack was home we spoke more and more.. conversations grew deeper and deeper and I ended up inviting her to Oologah UMC. I believe the church family embraced her at a time when they least knew she needed. Along came my Layla and again, Joan helped me with her own experiences, dealing with my divorce and the pain it caused. I think Joan was there right away with her cream savers when Layla got her first tooth! ;) I love the tradition she passed along to my children. She loved them and they adored Ms. Joan. She was a light in my life when I desperately needed one and an amazing friend during the good times as well. She will be missed more than she ever dreamed. My thoughts and many prayers to all who mourn the loss of Joan (Grandma A).

Joan was a fabulous church volunteer and my right hand helper for several years. Loved it when she would bring her fur babies to visit.
