“ I met Kayla back in 2017 when we both were trying for our GED. We stopped talking to one another for a good while (only cause I forgot to get her number lol) We saw each other again at Walmart randomly during 2020. And I found out just a few weeks ago that she moved in down the street from me. She was such a sweetheart! I loved talking to her. We tried to meet up again, but schedules got in the way. I will miss her!

“ When Kayla was two years old I was babysitting her. She would get into some old makeup and played artist. I was her canvas I would go home looking like a clown, but she would have a grand time. I miss you my only granddaughter.

“ *Kayla was my life partner of 6 years, She was the kindest most loving person I've ever met, It still does not seem real to me, She would do anything for anyone and always put other people before herself. She was the true definition of a loyal and loving wife, Kayla I will always love you and you will remain in my heart forever and ever. You have impacted my life more than any single person ever has, you taught me kindness and how to open up and love people, Things will never be the same without you, I can't imagine what my future will be like without you in it. We were about to start our own family and everything, I guess God had other plans. You were taken away from me too soon we still had our whole lives to live. I will carry your soul and our memories with me for many years to come! Bye bye for now untill we meet again.
