“ I have been putting together pictures from all sorts of files, boxes and trunks. The ones I have found the most entertaining were those of Linda Sue and Sissy (or Joylene as she would be known in adulthood). Mainly because of the stories Mother told me of the weeks Linda Sue and Sissy would spend with Granny and Grandpa in Cromwell. When Linda Sue and Sissy were around Mother couldn't enjoy her status as the baby in the family because Granny told her she was responsible for her young nieces. Unfortunately, they did not care for her oversight and often did as they pleased and always insisted on being able to go everywhere that Mother went. I recall how both laughed when retelling those days. We so appreciated Linda Sue's love of family and her earnest desire to know all of those Snodgrass' and Sullengers who came before us. They became vividly real when we talked about her finds. We are thinking about Linda and her family even now these few months since she passed when the shock begins to ebb and reality sinks in. We are so very sorry for your deep loss.
