“ I remember mom telling me when Grama passed away that it would get easier in time. The grief would ease up a little bit every day.. But I'm not sure that's correct... The grief has only multiplied, as the years in my life go on without the life of my loved ones. But a tragic loss of love, can force you to see what you had. So that you may fully embrace & appreciate what you have in front of you now. It doesn't get easier in time, you get stronger...

“ Just wanted to stop and say somethin cause yet again i needed a recipe so i picked up the phone and tried calling you but all i got was a number disconnected message): and then i remembered..): i miss you every day. I always heard people say that when they lost someone they get an empty feeling and of all the people ive lost i had never felt it so strong. i literally feel a void without you around. i dont think i appreciated you as much as i should have when you were alive and i regret it every day. i realize now that you were a large piece of my life. a place to stay when i got myself in a predicament. a phone call when i was bored or had something to tell someone but i knew you were the only person who would even pretend to care. you were my phone book. my recipe book. my dictionary. im so sorry that i wasnt around as much as i should have been. love and miss you.

“ I've got so many memories with Peggy from the times she would cook enough to feed our entire school to what all Amanda & i convinced Peggy to let us do. I cherish all of these memories & will never forget them. Peggy meant more than I can put into words. She loved many & is loved by many. Thank you for all of the wonderful memories Peggy. I love you. “ She will be missed, we worked together for many years. She took care of me like a mother and was very loving. I will miss her dearly.

“ Please accept my deepest sympathies for your loss. Though it has been many many years since I last spoke with Peggy, I still have fond memories to this day.

“ I can't help but remember Peggy's cooking. Growing up, no matter how many of us Mandy showed up with, Peggy would always make sure we were well-fed. She was a great cook. I think her inflation steaks were my favorite, but she could fry a mean chicken. Rest in peace, Peggy. We'll miss you.

“ I think my favorite memory of my grandma is all the times she let me help her make salsa. Any time we were cooking really. Its one of the things that she enjoyed doing the most. One thing we are all very glad she passed down to us.
