Phyllis had a such a great love for the kids and customers that came to the store. She had a heart for young people and worked tirelessly as a mentor to them. Phyllis embraced people so easily into her family and was the "mother and grandmother" to so many, loving them unconditionally as her own. Phyllis was a member of the Church of God of Prophecy where she lovingly worked with children and youth ministries, women's ministries and served as Sunday school teacher for many years. She started playing the piano at church at the age of nine and continued to do so or over 70 years. Phyllis had a deep love for the Lord and did not hesitate to share Jesus with those around her.
