“ I met Red in about 1970 or 71 I was working at Hurd's Kerr McGee gas station. Red would come in to get gas we would talk a little and be came friends over the years we became very very good friends. If you live to be 100 you will be able to count your real friends on one hand. And Red was one of those friends to me. I could write for ever about my FRIEND Red. You have been gone for a week none and it hurts me ever day not to see and talk to you. It is sad that men don't tell each other that they love them. I will miss you old FRIEND LOVE YOU.
