“ One of the very first memories of A. Ruth was when I was little - don't remember for sure how old, but John & Joe were less than a year old I believe. One of you had a little red mark on his cheek and your mom pulled out her lipstick and made a mark on the other ones cheek as a trick on Grandma Montgomery so she wouldn't know which one was which. It was funny to see grandma's reaction when she realized that both of you had a red mark. She just knew she would be able to tell you apart because of that mark. Your mom was always very encouraging to me in my faith in the Lord and was always asking me about our church and how involved I was especially after she found out that I was playing in our churches bell choir. She always made me feel very special! Cathy Dauner
