“ He did love a good debate. We would talk for hrs on different subjects. He insisted he was right most of the time. Google was only involved if we both felt our side was the right one. I did win a few of these . He did say I'd never be the smartest woman.. that his momma was.

He did love talking about Micheal and fallen angels.

Cern and the super collider another favorite topic. And man was he a conspiracy theorist. Especially Walmart of all things. Lol

He had a beautiful heart. He just had a lost soul. Always looking for where he belonged.. not believing in the moment. Well I know now that he has found his peace and will help is find ours.

I love you Scott!

To the Mooniverse and back. Save me a seat

“ My sister Helen got married moved to California. She came home to visit. She brought the most beautiful baby I had ever seen. Big blue eyes so cute. He snelted so sweet. His name was Scotty. I had a real life baby doll. I was in heaven. That is how Scott always made me feel. He made me feel like I was so important. He would always give me the best bear hugs. When he loved you he sure made you feel it. Iwill mis him terribly. I know I will get another hug from him and see that handsome, gorgeous smile. I love you my nephew and i know heaven is a happier place with you in it. All my love, Gena

Oh Gena! 😭😭😭..... Thank you.

Everyone loved his bear hugs, ever since kindergarten! This emptiness is something I never dreamed I would feel. He was always my baby, especially at age 56! He was still a kid at heart! 😭
