“ So many great memories growing up. Stevie taught me without knowing it to look at people as people. That different doesn't mean less than. That when something is in your way and trying to make you feel scared, you push through it head first. He started life with so many challenges and labels, and I won't say that I never saw him down about them, but I can say I never saw him stay down. It was such a blessing growing up with him. I will treasure those memories always. Love you, Stevie! God bless your soul, and place you among the righteous.
